Survey Discloses Public School Needs

Based on a study of the public school system and its problems made by Associated Consultants in Education, Inc., and H. M. Ivy, Executive Director, Meridian, and J. E. Baxter, Consultant, Prentiss, Miss., for the Board of School Trustees, Municipal Separate School District, Bay St. Louis, it was their recommendation that authorization of a $3,000 bond issue should be asked for the bonds to be issued as the study of the Bay St. Louis school District for 1963, and recommendations were received by the School Board to call an election through City Officials for a bond issue to include construction of a High School for white pupils for a minimum of 600 students with provisions for expansion on a site of 20 to 40 acres.

The new school should, the board was advised, be allotted, a minimum of 100 square feet per pupil.

While the site on Dunbar Ave., was considered by the consultants as a tempting one for location of the new High School, and scarcity of funds may require it, it was advised that every effort should be made to locate a site of 20 to 40 acres for its location north of Highway 90 in the School District.

Also recommended were renovation of facilities at Valena C. Jones School; renovation of the present Bay High School building primarily to house Junior High facilities and afford standby space for grades 4, 5, and 6 as may be needed; expansion of elementary facilities as needed at North Bay Elementary, Waveland or elsewhere.

The School Board and J. D. Culcough, Superintendent of public schools, in the communication received from Associated Consultants in Education, Inc., were commended on the present excellencies of the local school system and on their interest in not only maintaining these qualities, but also, in improving the entire system in the face of what may be apparently overwhelming odds.

Appreciation was also expressed for the cooperation of Mr. McCullough, School principal, Don Caldwell, their staff and faculty for securing the necessary data for their study.

NASA To Set Up Information Office

Plan For Dedication Ceremonies

JOSEPH A. CUEVAS ANNOUNCES FOR BEAT 3 SUPERVISOR

The information center opened Wednesday morning, April 17, at 8 a. m.

It will be housed in an abandoned nightclub which was known as "Shorty's 43 Club". The building is located about nine miles south of Picayune on Mississippi Highway 43.

The center will be manned for an interim period by Bob Able and Al Baggett, personnel specialists from Marshall in Huntsville, Ala., and Mrs. Mary McKee Dobson, receptionist and clerk who recently came to work for NASA at the site.

The test site's public information officer will be on duty to answer questions posed by the visitors.

All persons seeking information on the test site are urged to inquire at the center. Personnel there will answer visitors' questions about employment and the general status of the space facility.

In the past, visitors have been going to the headquarters building located on a winding road on the banks of the Pearl River. The area around this building has become congested, however, with the addition of NASA personnel and construction work on a railroad being brought into the area.

Mississippi Test Operations will be the testing site for NASA's large rocket stages manufactured at Michoud Operations in New Orleans, La., and at Seal Beach, California.

The test center will go into operation in mid-1965 after some $200 million worth of construction. Construction on the site will begin soon. The predominant features of the test center will be huge rocket testing stands and supporting facilities.

Three Are Released On Bond

Chief Deputy Sheriff Gerald V. Rice Jr. reported three of four Wiggins, Miss., men arrested last week for the alleged forgery of an endorsement on a $241 check written by two Gulfport contractors, were released Saturday on bond returnable to the September term of the Grand Jury.

Released, Price said, were Max Eli and Frank Lopez, Cecil Horn, he added, is being held in the county jail on a detainer served by the Federal Government.

According to Price the men got the check from the party to whom it was issued at an establishment in the vicinity of De Lisle Saturday night.

It was left, he added, with Nutty Pernicaro to be cashed after he pulled their car out of a bog on the Kiln road. When they returned to the Pernicaro station later Sunday for their money, Pernicaro questioned them and they fled. He notified the Sheriff's office and they were apprehended shortly afterwards by Deputy Price.

GAINESVILLE, MISS. - The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will negotiate with the General Electric Company for an extension of GE's Project Apollo support effort to provide plant and test support services at NASA's Mississippi Test Operations.

NASA estimates that an initial one-year contract with GE would cost about $1.5 million. Depending on negotiations, the extension could run through 1968, reaching an estimated annual cost of 20-25 million as buildup of the facility continues and test operations begin.

Mississippi Test Operations, now under construction on a 13,500 acre tract 42 miles northeast of New Orleans, La., will be used for static testing Saturn V launch vehicle stages and engines.

The $500 million facility will receive Saturn stages assembled at NASA's Michoud Operations plant in New Orleans and other points and conduct static firings tests before they are shipped to NASA's Merritt Island, Florida launch area for flight missions.

Initial test operations at MTO will be conducted by various stage and engine contractors under the direction of Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala. In addition, plant support efforts provided by GE at MTO would be directed by Marshall.

This would include "plant support" - such things as utilities, personnel transportation, plant security, fire protection, medical facilities and photographic services, and "test support" - such as control and communications, support services for data acquisition and handling, storage and handling of propellants, a component service facility, and shop and field services.

General Electric was selected by NASA in February, 1962 to support NASA's Apollo Manned Space Flight Program, including system integration, checkout and reliability. This work, expected to cost about $125 million a year for the next four to five years, gives the company a major responsibility in the technical support area at the Mississippi test site, and selection of GE to provide management of administrative services at MTO will simplify management and improve efficiency.

At peak operations after 1966, the GE support effort at MTO would require some 1200 to 1500 employees all told, upward of 3,000 employees of various contractor firms along with about 200 NASA people who will be working at MTO within three years, according to current estimates.

It is anticipated that GE will arrange for a substantial portion of the required support to be provided by local labor and services, by contracting with local firms.

CANCER CAN STRIKE BOTH CHILDREN — ADULTS

Too many people think of cancer as a disease that strikes only adults, especially older men and women. This belief is one of the heartbreaking tragedies in handling cancer in children.

The fact is that cancer is the leading cause of death from disease among school children. Some 4,000 will die if this year if present rates continue. And the death rate from childhood cancer has increased from 5.2 for each 100,000 population to 8.1 during the last 30 years.

One of the problems in dealing with childhood cancer is the unhappy fact that too many of the cancers are treated too late. Physicians tell us that an increasing number of five, ten, twenty-year and even lifetime survivors show that treatment when started sufficiently early can often preserve life.

If more parents realized that children do get cancer and if they acted promptly in seeking medical advice more children could be saved. Improved techniques in radiology and surgery offer new opportunities for survival and possible cure.

Even for leukemia, cancer of the blood-forming tissue, which is the most critical cancer problem among children, there is a promise of hope. Newly-developed drugs make it possible to extend the lives of many leukemia patients from months to years of useful life. Now there is growing evidence linking viruses as a possible cause of leukemia. If this should be found to be true, then a vaccine might be developed. The conquest of leukemia alone would eliminate the tragic loss of life of over 2,300 children each year.

The American Cancer Society is investing many thousands of dollars each year in research on cancer in children. They are putting more funds into leukemia research than in any other group.

Now is no time to slacken this research effort. Instead, it should be stepped up. Bear this in mind when the American Cancer Society asks you to make a contribution to the 1963 Cancer Crusade.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

House Administration.
In Hancock County, you can get the additional information by calling Hugh C. Sanford, Work Unit Conservationist, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

For the suburban dweller who has a soil problem in his garden, or the engineer looking for a building site, the latest publication by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service will come in mighty handy. It is called "KNOW YOUR SOIL" and explains how soil scientists of the Department of Agriculture are gradually mapping the soils of this country and what these maps mean to every citizen.

W. L. Heard, state conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Jackson, advises that a copy may be obtained from the local SCS office.

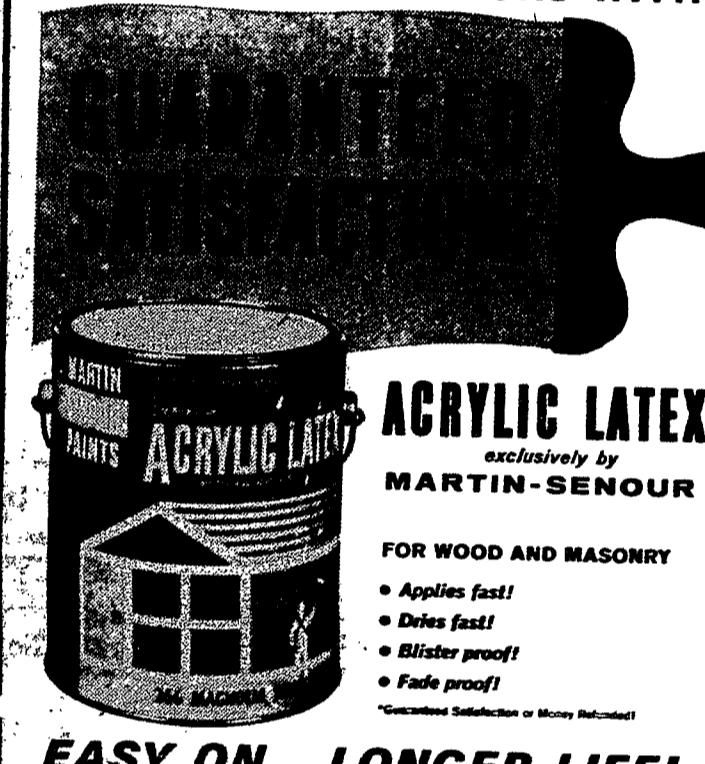

A soil is three-dimensional, according to the publication. It is bounded on the top by surface of the land on the bottom by rock, and on the sides by other soils. The first job of the soil scientist is to distinguish between these separate soils. More than 70,000 different kinds are recognized now.

"Under authorities granted the U. S. Department of Agriculture in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962, landowners, individually and in groups, will be helped to develop income-producing recreation on private land," Mr. Heard says.

"If landowners cooperating with the Soil Conservation Districts want to establish income-producing recreation enterprises, the Soil Conservation Service will provide technical assistance."

Financial aid in some cases in the form of cost-sharing payments may be available through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Loans may be made to farmers under certain conditions through the Farmers

PRESIDENT MISS. POWER COMPANY VOICES OPINION

The president of Mississippi Power Company voiced his opposition before a U. S. Senate subcommittee on appropriation of funds for REA lending programs that would be used for construction of electric generating and transmission facilities.

A. J. Watson, Jr., Gulfport, appearing on April 4, before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on the Department of Agriculture, said that he believed that the committee should put restrictions on the use of funds set aside for REA to lend which would make it impossible for the funds to be used to duplicate or replace investor-owned facilities without giving the owner of the facilities a chance to be heard "fairly and impartially" on the economic feasibility of such projects.

"I respectfully urge," he states, "that this committee withhold recommending any appropriation of funds for lending by REA to construct generating plants and transmission lines until the detailed requirements for such loans are justified to your committee."

Mr. Watson said that such justification should require complete

SOUTHERN BELL PLANS $350 MILLION IMPROVEMENT

The Southern Bell Telephone Company, with its "plain" scattered over nine states, expects to improve and enlarge its facilities by $350 million in 1963.

This expenditure, which is about the same as the record breaking 1962 expenditure, was revealed by President Ben S. Gilmer of Atlanta.

Mr. Gilmer said the proposed multi-million dollar program is necessary because of continuing heavy telephone needs in the South up to the present and expectations of future heavy requirements for a variety of services.

About $128 million is earmarked for new central office equipment,

$83 million for cables, poles and supplies for outside plant and $14.5 million for land and buildings, among other items.

Southern Bell serves Alabama,

Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina,

South Carolina and Tennessee.

There are more than 8 million

Southern Bell telephones in the homes and offices and on the farms of the South, plus more than

2 million non-Southern Bell telephones.

In 10 years the number of Southern Bell phones has doubled. But one of the most interesting telephone developments is the increase in telephones per household. In the "Southern Bell South" in 1943, 30 of every 100 households had telephones. In 1953, 53 of every 100 households have telephones.

This has come about, Mr. Gilmer points out, because of increased income of the average Southern family and increased reliance on the telephone by members of the family for getting things said and done. "Telephone service has become more available throughout the house, in terms of extension phones and related services off

the main telephone, and therefore is more convenient to use," he said. "Its instrumentalities have become more attractive in terms of redesigned sets and color sets.

"Gone is the day, for the most part, of one black telephone in the center bedroom hall," Mr. Gilmer said, "and this has been a big factor in residential telephone grow-tht."

And Southerners use their telephones - more per day, in fact,

than telephone users in the nation

as a whole, Mr. Gilmer said. If your telephone is average, six calls are originated over it every day, compared to five in the U. S. as a whole.

LONG DISTANCE TOO

Of the expenditure planned for expanded and improved long distance service, about $7 million will go into equipment which will enable 627,000 more customers to dial many of their own long distance calls. The volume of long distance usage by Southerners has increased 289% over 1948 and 86% over 1953.

On the average day, 830,000 long distance messages are handled by Southern Bell.

Southern Bell is the most far-flung of Southern businesses expecting facilities - it operates in 1,149 metropolitan areas and communities and probably has a heavier investment than any other Southern Company.

Its total plant investment in serving the South tops $3 billion. Its payroll to more than 64,000 Southerners exceeds $350 million annually, its operating taxes $224 million.

Its payment to Southern manufacturers and businesses for purchases and services, construction and maintenance contracts, rental and utilities total about $95 million each year. Western Electric, supplier for the Bell Telephone System, spends another $72 million annually in firms in the South.

Having announced my candidacy for Beat No. 5 Supervisor at an early date, I have had the opportunity to meet with numerous citizens. The response has been most encouraging.

I'd like to express my deep appreciation for the great assistance I am getting from my many friends.

It is my belief that if the voters will THINK WISELY, they will realize that a new, younger, ambitious Member of the Board of Supervisors will be a great asset to this community, during this transition and expansion period of the NASA Test Facilities in our County.

It is my intention to meet personally with all the voters of Beat No. 5, to discuss my candidacy, and if I have not had the opportunity to see you yet, I will be calling on you in the near future.

I HAVE THE QUALIFICATIONS and I WILL MAKE YOU A GOOD MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.
